AYER'S Hair Vigor

restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the Vigor is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

Mr. C. P. BROCHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MR. ANDERSON FAIRBANKS, leader of the celebrated "Fairbank Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Ever since my hair began to give silvery evidence of the change which flitting time procured, I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness—a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

Mrs. O. A. PRESCOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 14, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly used but one bottle of the Vigor, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.

Petroleum.

It was not until 1859 that the idea seemed to have dawned upon anybody's mind that the oil flow, which had been known in a quiet way for a number of years, must have its source in the earth, and that, while the earth would of itself yield to the surface an uneasing stream, it could be made by being tapped, pumped or drawn upon to give up a supply in great abundance. This idea was at last conceived by a man named Drake, who dug a deep well in a field near the banks of Oil Creek, and about three miles from the town of Titusville, in Western Pennsylvania. He had faith in his enterprise, and this faith strengthened his energy, which was ultimately rewarded by striking a petroleum spring, which of its own force threw to the surface a large volume and with an unchecked flow. This discovery was too prominent to be disguised, and on the circumstance that the earth had been found to contain within it a sea of oil becoming noised abroad, the owners of land in the vicinity of the discovery were roused to the highest pitch of excitement while speculators grew feverish over the promises of a rich harvest. Speculators leased lands from the farmers in plots and began tapping the subterranean lake of oil, just as Drake had done, and the farmers and owners of the soil obtained fancy prices for leases and royalties.

Soon the land in the whole district was pierced and punched in quest of the huge oily cavern, and what had hitherto been a comparatively uninhabited territory swarmed with toilers for wealth. Like many other discoverers of riches in the confines of the earth, and like many other noble, plodding pioneers in the realm of science, Drake profited but little by his discovery, but had to succumb in an unequal fight with capital, while thousands of others fattened and enriched themselves by a traffic which his discovery created. Drake, instead of being raised to a position of affluence, was reduced to comparative poverty, and it was left to the Legislature of the State to keep the wolf from his door by conceding him a pension as a deserving but unfortunate benefactor of his race. But even when the oil lake had been tapped there were few, if any, who knew of its qualities and the purposes to which it could be most usefully applied.

In illustration of this ignorance the story of the last days of Mrs. McClintock, of McClintock farm, a short distance from the town of McClintockville, may be told. Mrs. McClintock was the owner of the holding which she farmed, and which was a bleak, stony, unfertile plot. Being right in the heart of the oil region, she had a well dug upon her property soon after Drake revealed the presence of an immense natural oil store. Obtaining a pailful of oil as it welled up from the well, and being desirous to ascertain whether it possessed heat and light-giving qualities, she took to her house the pailful of oil and threw it up on the fire, and in an instant this act revealed to her and her neighbors that it possessed not only inflammable properties, but a tremendous explosive power, for the oil, as soon as it came in contact with the fire, caused a vast flame to belch forth from the fire-place, and this was accompanied by a loud report. The inquisitiveness of Mrs. McClintock involved the destruction of her own life and the demolition of her dwelling. The walls of the house were blown out of shape where they were not wholly blown down, or twisted and torn into cracks or fissures, while the contents of the house were licked and consumed by the volume of flame created by the oil, as it leaped from object to object in the widow's house. Mrs. McClintock paid for her experiment with her life.

The Laundries of the Seine.

Women kneel in the boats on the banks of the Seine, pounding their linen with the wooden battoir, scrubbing it with a stiff brush on a ridged board, while they sing as merrily as larks, and reply to the banter of the passing bargee and canotier. They turn the handles of the wringing machines and do all the hard labor while the men are busy ironing. The man in the blue cotton trousers and snowy white shirt, with the scarlet girdle round his waist, can iron as well as any Chinaman. He can boast of having strong his colleagues men who can goffer a frill, or "bring up" the pattern of lace better than any emigrant from the celestial Empire. The irons, flat and box, are pushed deftly to and fro over the white linen, which has been starched, and the man who wields them has a bit of wax in his pocket, like the chalk of the billiard player, which he passes over the hot iron, when he comes to the front, the collar or the wristbands. He has learned the rudiments of his art when, a soldier in barracks, he was compelled to do his own washing and ironing, and he works by the piece, earning his living and, glowering angrily when his profits are menaced by the threat of introducing the mangle, as yet almost unknown to this side of the Channel. The blanchisseur goes into Paris on the Monday morning with the clean linen, and the ironers, who have been working overtime on the Sunday and on the two preceding days, take a rest. They may be found on Monday afternoon at one or the other of the concerts at Pont du Jour, enjoying themselves as best they can with the firm intention of not resuming their occupations until the Wednesday. Sometimes their employers can not secure their services until Friday, but, as a general rule, they prefer to wait, for they are ungallant enough to maintain that it is far better and more profitable to employ men than women. —London Globe.

Trying a Boy.

After a bootblack had polished the boots of gentleman who was rambling around the City Hall, it was discovered that the man had nothing less than a dollar bill and the boy no more than fifteen cents.

"I suppose you can get this changed?" suggested the man.

"Oh, yes."

"And you can find me when you come back?"

"Yes."

"But if I place this dollar in your hands will it not be a temptation to you to cut sticks?"

"I wouldn't steal no sich sum as that," contemptuously replied the boy, "but for fear I might git a telegram and be called out of town in a hurry, I guess you'd better go along."

"My son, I think I can trust you. Go on your way. I was never deceived in a boy yet."

The boy started down Griswold street and did not return. The man did not wait, however. It was a busted Canadian bank bill. —Detroit Free Press.

—A cave has been discovered in the woods in the vicinity of the chemical works in Woburn, Mass., which has evidently been the home of robbers. The cave contains closets, shelves, cooking utensils, etc., and when first discovered had within it certain silverware. It is thought to have been the hiding-place of a gang of housebreakers who infested this and neighboring towns a few years since, and its abandonment can only be accounted for by the arrest of the thieves. —Boston Transcript.

The Supreme Court of the United States has rendered a decision declaring a part of the Civil Rights act unconstitutional. In the opinion of the court, the section declared unconstitutional invades the province of the states. The section of the revised statutes affected and invalidated by the decision is number 5,336. The case on which the decision was based, involved the conduct of a hotel keeper in Tennessee. There was considerable difference of opinion as to the scope of the decision, some maintaining that it directly affected the entire act, while others claimed that it affected only the section named. Among the Democrats in Congress there were many who expressed the opinion that the entire act would yet be declared unconstitutional. Justice Wood delivered the opinion. Justice Harlan dissented on the ground that this court had no jurisdiction over the case on the certificate of division that brought the case before the Supreme Court, but expressed no opinions on the merits of the case.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District, ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin Cure, one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no lump to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for best as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. 127d.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

MONDAY EVENING, JAN. 29, 1893.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,

PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

MANY people doubtless will
Be glad to hear us say,
In spite of ice the boats are out
And ply again to-day.
And we may come and go again,
Just as we used to do,
With floating palaces at hand
To quickly up us through.

The band room has been removed to Fourth street, in the old Mitchell building.

The pardon of H. B. Porter was received on Saturday and he was accordingly discharged from custody.

Hon. W. H. WADSWORTH has been employed to defend Joseph Redmond, for killing Will Secrest, at Paris, several months ago.

The judgment of the Mason Circuit Court in the case of Plister against the City of Maysville, has been affirmed by the Superior Court.

There will be preaching at the M. E. Church, Third street, every night this week at seven o'clock. Everybody is invited to attend the meetings.

ONE of the six locomotives lately built for the Kentucky Central has been put on the Maysville division of the road, and Col. Henry Green is very proud of it.

We have been requested to say that the ball at the Central Hotel will be given next Friday evening and not on Thursday evening, as printed by the Sunday Morning Call.

A row of frame dwellings on Bridge street for Messrs. J. C. Owens and T. A. Ross will be put up immediately by Lane & Worrick. The work is to begin this week.

The announcement that a cyclone would visit Maysville last Saturday was intended merely to herald the arrival at the trotting track of Jack Hook's celebrated trotting horse Cyclone. The apology is accepted.

ALL the regular packets are out again and running on schedule time. The days of the boats will be changed as follows. Bostona, Monday and Thursday; Telegraph, Tuesday and Friday; Fleetwood, Wednesday and Saturday.

LANE & WORRICK are putting up an iron front in the building lately occupied by Tim. Mendell as a confectionery store. When the improvements are finished it will be occupied by Frank Devine as a cigar manufactory and dwelling.

Attention.

The members of the Emmet Rifles are notified to meet at their armory Tuesday evening at seven o'clock for the consideration of important business. Every member is expected to be present.

E. W. FITZGERALD, Captain.

M. J. McCARTHY, Sergeant.

WHILE the Emmet Rifles have just cause for complaint respecting the action of the military authorities in the Hierley matter, they will respond promptly to any call for their services by the State and will render as zealous service as any company in the State Guard. The various reports that have been printed in the Louisville and Cincinnati papers concerning this command do it very great injustice.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mrs. G. S. Wall is at Cincinnati attending the Musical Festival.

Miss Emily Snodgrass, of Flemingsburg, is the guest of Miss Delia Wood.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hall, will leave this evening for Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Laura L. Grant, widow of the late W. L. Grant, died at Covington last week.

Miss Vina Wherry has been called home from Richmond, Ind., by the sickness of her mother.

Messrs. Harry S. Wood, Will F. Hall and Lud Browning will leave this evening for New Orleans.

Miss Bodie Motjoy, who has been visiting her cousin Mrs. Sudie Trow, left by rail this morning, for Lexington, Mo.

Miss Anna M. Barnes, editor and proprietor of the Acanthus, a literary journal published at Atlanta, Ga., will visit Maysville this week in the interest of her paper. She comes with the highest recommendations of the press of Georgia, and of the prominent public men of that State.

The special dispatch to the Louisville Commercial printed elsewhere, is pronounced by members of the Emmet Rifles to be a tissue of falsehood. They deny, emphatically, that "every attention was paid to the wound of Sergeant Hierley by the surgeon of the battalion." They denounce as false the statement that "Sergeant Hierley was on the pay roll at the expense of the State until the day of his death," also, that "his ration money was allowed him while he was at his home suffering from the wound," and that "after his death a batch of accounts were sent to the Adjutant General of the State for the expenses of a funeral procession and the charges of five doctors who attended him, etc."

Some years ago, when a member of one of the Louisville companies was wounded during the war in Breathitt county, the expense of his illness were promptly paid by the State, and this, the Emmet Rifles think, might have been done in the case of Sergeant Hierley.

A New Industry.

We are reliably informed that a new and important industry is to be established in this city in this spring. It is an establishment for the manufacture of ice. Mr. John H. Hall, who is at the head of the enterprise, has already selected a site for the works in East Maysville, and is about to close the contracts for buildings and machinery. This factory, we are told, will be able to supply ice of the best quality, in any quantity, at a maximum price of one-half cent a pound. An establishment of this kind has been long needed here and there are the best reasons for believing it will be successfully conducted. The work of putting up the buildings and placing the machinery will begin about the first of April.

COUNTY POINTS.

STONE LICK.

Mrs. Crosby, wife of our esteemed friends and neighbor is sick, but not dangerously.

Squire Coryell, after being confined to his house for three weeks is able to be out again.

Mr. Lewis Bullock and Miss Rosy Key, have returned from their trip to Lewis County.

Mr. Noah Bateman and mother have returned to Maysville, to live.

At a dancing party a few nights since a lady was so unfortunate as have her hair to come down while she was dancing asked a lady friend to take her place while she retired to the dressing room to rearrange it.

There will be another party at Mr. George Farrow's in a short while. This time it will take a few dimes to get in at the door.

A bridegroom not long ago was mad at the preacher who officiated at his wedding because he did not return the fee of $5. The preacher was sorry it was not $25, as the bridegroom thought of giving.

The young ladies here have hit on a novel experiment to keep their sweethearts from being fickle minded. They feed them on pickle.

A colored boy was plowing with an unruly horse he got so mad he bit a piece of the horse's ear off. We hope the horse worked better afterwards.

As a result of a two week's meeting held by Elder Riley, of Mayslick, at Brooksville, ten were added to the church, four by immersion and six by letter.

A great deal of complaint is made by the preachers of the day of vacant seats at their meetings. They say infidelity being rampant is the cause but we ask is there more to-day than there ever has been, we say not. Then what is the cause? Is it the religion or the ministry. REPORTER.

MAYS LICK.

Mrs. A. D. Orr has been quite sick for several days past and is still poorly. Her daughter, Miss Nellie, is running the school alone and very competently.

George Williams, living four miles south of this place, died on Monday night last of consumption. He leaves a young wife and child to mourn his loss. He was buried at Poplar Plains, Fleming county.

The youngest son of Jonas Myall is now in Cincinnati having his eyes operated on. One is entirely gone and the other one doubtful. All from the use of toy pistols. Since writing the above Mr. Myall has returned home with his son with one artificial eye, and the other one in a doubtful condition.

Mrs. Benj. Longnecker is now in Cincinnati having something like a tumor removed from her eye.

Mrs. Joel Laytham is able to be out again.

Miss Lou Gallagher, the reigning belle of Fleming county, made a social call at the Stonewall House last Friday. Rich was scenting around.

Thomas Hopper was seen on our streets last Friday.

THE STATE MILITIA.

The Mutterings of the Emmet Rifles and the Case of Sergeant Hierley—Consolidating Battalions.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 26.—The report that the Emmet Rifles, of Maysville, are not likely to respond to Governor Blackburn's call for troops to go to Carter county should Judge Brown make an application for them, is looked upon at military headquarters here as a misrepresentation of that company. The grounds upon which the report is founded are not good. Sergeant Hierley, a member of the Rifles, was accidentally shot at Catlettsburg, from the effects of which he died. Every attention was paid to the wound by the surgeon of the battalion, who is a young man of this city having had considerable experience in his profession and who was highly recommended for the position. Sergeant Hierley was on the pay-roll at the expense of the State until the day of his death. His board bill was paid at Catlettsburg and his ration money allowed while he was at his home in Maysville suffering from the wound. After his death a batch of accounts were sent to the Adjutant General of the State for the expenses of a funeral procession and the charges of five doctors who attended him, etc. This account was rejected by the Adjutant General on the ground that he did not think it was right and proper for him to approve it and make the State pay the claim, besides he considered it very doubtful if the law allowed him to do so. Governor Blackburn and Adjutant General Nickols are confident that the Emmet Rifles will be the first to respond to the call for troops. If the troops are called out and the Emmet Rifles refuse to go to Carter then they will probably be promptly mustered out of the service. The following was issued to-day:

HEADQUARTERS KENTUCKY STATE GUARD, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, FRANKFORT, Jan. 26.—Special Orders, No. 5.—1. The several Infantry companies composing in part the Third Battalion, Kentucky State Guard, commanded by Major John R. Allen, are hereby organized into a regiment, consisting of two battalions, of four companies each, which shall be known and designated as the Second Regiment, Kentucky State Guards, as follows: First Battalion—Company A, McCreary Guards, Frankfort; Company B, Nickols Guards, Frankfort; Company C, Emmet Rifles, Maysville; Company D, Lexington Guards, Lexington.

Second Battalion—Company E, Blackburn Guards, Midway; Company F, Cerro Gordo Guards, Mt. Sterling; Company G, McKee Guards, Lawrenceburg; Company H, Clark County Rifles, Winchester.

II. The several companies will, on the evening of Tuesday, the 30th inst., assemble at their respective armories and proceed to the election, by ballot, of a Major for each of said battalions, companies only voting for such officer for the battalion to which they are hereby assigned. The election will be held as provided by law for the election of company officers, and complete return thereof immediately made by company commanders to the Adjutant General.

III. At the same time the company officers will vote for a Colonel of said regiment, the vote to be taken by ballot, and reported immediately by the senior officer present to the Adjutant General.

By order of the Governor,
J. P. NICKOLS, Adjutant General.

We do not sound a needless alarm when we tell you that the taint of scrofula is in your blood. Inherited or acquired it is there, and Ayer's Sarsaparilla alone will effectually eradicate it.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer imparts a fine gloss and freshness to the hair, and is highly recommended by physicians, clergymen and scientists as a preparation accomplishing wonderful results. It is a certain remedy for removing dandruff, making the scalp white and clean, and restoring gray hair to its youthful color.

While a guard of soldiers were conveying $200,000 in the Indian Territory for the Creek Orphan Fund, they were fired upon by unknown parties in ambush, but no one was hurt.

The memorial bust and pedestal of the late Denis Florence MacCarthy, Poet Laureate of Ireland, have been placed in the Dublin City Hall, and were unveiled on New Year's day by the Right Hon. Charles Dawson, M. P., Lord Mayor. It stands between the statues of Grattan and O'Connell. It is colossal, and the work of Farrell, R. H. A., and recalls perfectly the fine head and features, massive forehead, wavy locks, and flowing beard of the great poet.

Notwithstanding many opposite rumors on the subject, it is now announced positively that the coronation of the Czar Alexander III. will be celebrated in the usual historical manner and with all due pomp some time next spring, and in all likelihood as soon as possible after the thaw. In view of the coronation, it has been decided that the building in which the Moscow exhibition was recently held shall be kept standing, and it is apparently to be made the scene of festivities.

—To iron embroidery nicely press it on the wrong side between two flannels.

—Mr. Yates, of Shanghai, says the Chinese pay $154,752,000 per year to quiet the spirits of their ancestors.

—So many violets are grown at Nice, Italy, to supply the demand of perfumery factories that the air for miles around the city is heavy with their odor. Heliotropes and white roses are also grown by the acre there.

—Lady Wolverton does not believe that women should do useless fancy work, but that they should knit stockings for poor old men and warm petticoats for poor old women. So she will start the Dorsetshire Needlework Guild.

—Lady Brassey has contracted for the building of a sailing ship that will stand without a rival for curi-ns shape among the ships of our times. It is to be twenty-seven feet long, and to have the lines of a certain viking ship recently become known, and of which a model was shown at an exhibition held not long ago in England. During the August week at Cowes roads next year Lady Brassey intends to row and sail in this remarkable boat. Two of its features will be more modern than its lines. It will be lugger-rigged, and will have a sliding keel.

—The English people are losing that appetite for mutton which once prevailed so extensively among them. This fact is shown in the agricultural returns just issued. There are fewer sheep kept in Great Britain just now than for twelve years past, and the falling off in this item of live stock in the case of England alone has amounted in the last eleven years to over 2,500,000. Moreover, in the case of England the decrease has been going on at an accelerated pace up to this year, the total for 1882 being no less than 3,500,000 below 1879, whereas in Scotland the figures for the two years, and, indeed, for the whole period, do not vary materially.

—A telegram of Russian origin, from Van, states that the brother of the brigand Mahmed Ali, having been arrested for an attempt upon the life of the Governor of Bitlis, Mahmed Ali, with his band, attacked the prison at Museh, where his brother was confined, with the object of liberating him. In the conflict which ensued with the warders of the jail the imprisoned brother was killed, and Mahmed took to flight, but afterward returned and succeeded in carrying off his brother's body. He and his associates cut off the noses of the jailers and pillaged three Armenian villages in the neighborhood, violating several women, killing the male inhabitants, and carrying off a quantity of cattle. It is added that the Turkish authorities pay no attention to the complaints of the Armenians in regard to these outrages.

Taking It Out of the Store.

Mr. Kemper, of Illinois, was in the mercantile business. He had a great deal of work outside of his store, and he generally made it a point to pay men that worked for him with goods. On one occasion he had a pile of wood he wanted cut into stove wood. Calling to a boy on the street he said:

"Here, Dick, I want to get a little wood cut. Can you do it?"

"Yes," said the boy.

"All right; you go over to the house and cut up that pile, and come back and I'll pay you for it; but," he added, after a moment's pause, "I suppose you will take it out of the store?"

"Of course," replied the boy, "I would just as soon take it out of the store as not."

Meeting Kemper on the street a day or two after, the boy said:

"Say, Mr. Kemper, I would like to have the cash for cutting that wood."

"Why," said Kemper, "I thought you were going to take it out of the store."

"Well, who said I wouldn't? We are out of the store now, and I will take the cash."—Detroit Free Press.
